A NUMBER OF ROAD SUPERVISORS APPOINTED TUESDAY.

President Hess on the Question of Road Making-Tax Collectors Not Yet Appointed -A Past Muster's Jewel-Base Ball at Rock Hill-Arbor Day Observance-Other Matters.

The county commissioners Tuesday appointed the following road supervi sors: First district, Amos Earp, Jr.; Second district, Thomas M. Johnson; Third district, C. I. Shipley: Fourth district, Wm. T. Carr; Fifth district, G. W. Carr and Welling Igehart; Sixth district, James L. Geaslin and Lemucl

Harry Miles was appointed a consta ble for the Fourth district and Charles

T. O'Connor for the Sixth. A fight for reappointment as superviso in the Fifth district was made by Mr. II. Clay Simpson, and he was backed by a strong delegation. His competitor was Mr. Welling Iglehart, and, as appears above, Mr. Iglehart was successful. Among the first to congratulate him on his success was Mr. Simpson, Apropos of the proposed new roa law for Howard county, President Benjamin F. Hess, of the board, stated Tuesday that in securing good roads for any community the old question of paying for the same would continue to bob up just as in the past. People will complain of bad roads but when it comes to relping to pay for better thoroughfares; they will not prove their faith by their works. They are always willing to le, the other fellow bear the expenses. Mr. Hess says that whenever in any neighborhood the people come together and agree to contribute in work, material or money to a new and needed road, the commissioners are and have always been more than willing to meet them half way. He is watching with much interest to see if certain localities will be any more willing to tax themselves under the new law, than they have been in the past to contribute.

A PAST MASTER'S JEWEL

Presented to Mr. Louis N. Getz by Masonic Lodge.

Past Master Louis N. Getz, of Patmos Lodge, A. F. and A. M., was made the recipient Tuesday evening last of a Past Master's jewel at the hands of his felfow Masons. The presentation was made by Dr. W. B. Gambrill and Mr. Getz responded appropriately. The handsome jewel is of the prescribed de sign, a pair of gold compasses, opened sixty degrees, enclosing a flaming sun, and resting on a quadrant. This design is suspended by a chain from a bar on which is Mr. Getz's name. The whole is of gold, and the jewels are diaonds and a magnificent sapphire. inscription is: "Presented to P. of presentation:

"Brother Getz: Upon occasions like of wild flowers. the present an air of mystery is maintained upon the supposition that the person addressed is ignorant of the subject and the purpose of the occasion. Without pretending any such lack of brethren of Patmos Lodge to express to you their respect and esteem, in the presentation of this handsome jewel. Every Masonic lodge has its jewels to $2.50 to the cause of the Aid Society. adorn it, every officer his jewel to mark Master Mason his distinctive jewel, and in this jewel, which I now present to you in the name of Patmos Lodge, you receive the distinctive mark of your place of honor in the lodge, and with it the expression of the love and esteem of sermon of Rev. D. M. Browning. your brethren. I will not attempt to explain the symbolic teachings of this beautiful emblem, but shall let it suffice to use only the compasses and segment of a circle. The compasses, as you know my brother, teach us to circum scribe our desires and to keep our pas sions within due bounds, and from the segment of a circle we will draw this lesson, that while our passions and desires may rise and fall within certain bounds, we should never allow them to pass beyond the points of the compasses. In wearing this jewel, my brother, remember that the brightest jewel of Master Mason is a spotless character, and the exemplification of an upright man and a faithful brother.

Mr. Getz's reply was as follows: "In accepting this beautiful Past Master's jewel presented to me by the brethren of Patmos Lodge, permit to say this is an interesting occasion in the history of my connection with Patmos Lodge, an event of which any Past Master can justly feel proud. I know of nothing I have done so important in my past record in the interest of this lodge, to merit this valuable gift, but I assure you Brethren there is nothing you could have done to honor me more or please me better."

Mr. Getz alluded to his membership of Patmos for ten years and having been secretary for six. Continuing he said: "Whether in office or out there is no secret organization with which I am connected that affords me the pleasure this does. No institution was ever raised on a better principle or more solid foundation, and if every Master Mason practices the lessons taught in the lodge room, and industriously studies the uses of his working tools, the square, level trees.

The School Board.

A delegation consisting of Messrs. James A. Mullinix, Perry G. in their work in every particular. The game was not one of any remarkable brilliancy. The second and ninth innings were the most interesting of the whole game. In the second inning Vernay struck out. Hatfield hit to right field for two bases. F. Barnes hit to pitcher, but was thrown out at first. J. Barnes hit to short, but Snyder fumbled the ball and Hatfield scored. Weer hit to Steele, who threw Barnes out at second. For the Rocks, Sullivan went to first on balls, and was thrown out at second. Hill struck out. Dwyer went out on a short fly to third base. In the ninth inning Sykesville made two runs. Polk struck out. Thomas went to first on balls. Waters hit for three bases, and Thomas came home. Brown hit to second, who threw home, but not in time to catch Waters. The side was retired by Vernay striking out. Among the features of the game, the double play of Thomas and Brown is noteworthy. J. Dwyer and Davis, as usual, made home runs. Clifford and Brown each had a three-bagger to their credit, while Steele rapped out two doubles and handsome home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh single, and S. Dwyer three singles. S. Dwyer appeared for the first time in the box and gave general satisfaction, striking out thirteen men and allowing only three hits to be made off his delivery. The score by innings is as follows:

base hits, Chiford, Waters; two base hits, Steele 2, Hatfield; base hits, Rock Hill College 12, Sykesville 3; hit by pitched ball, Davis, Clifford, Brown; errors, Rock Hill College 3, Sykesville 12; bases on balls, off Dwyer 1; off Thomas 2; umpires, J. J. Shannahan and J.H. Leishear, Jr.

SCENES IN THE LEGISLATURE DUR ING THE CLOSING HOURS

Delegate Tracey Entertained-Senator Rogers Mentioned for Congress- His Stand On the Court Reporter Bill-Ex-Senator

The legislature closed at 12 o'clock. sharp, Monday night. The Senate had completed its work twenty minutes before that time, and awaited the expiration by limitation with the dignity and decorum becoming such an august body. The House became a pandemonium about ten o'clock, although the monotonous tones of the reading clerk were continuously heard above the banging of cannon-crackers, some of them on the floor of the House. Papers and all sorts of missiles, aimed at members' heads by other members, were flying through the air with little interruption.

In both houses speeches of parting were made by the presiding officers. One of the most enjoyable events of the last legislative day was a splendid banquet given by Delegate John S. Tracey, of Howard county, to colleagues and friends. The spread was at the C. Townsend, where Delegate Tracey made his headquarters. Mr. Tracey greeted each of his friends at the main entrance with a hearty grasp of his honest hand, and Mrs. Townsend and other ladies rendered material assistance in receiving. It would have been difficult to secure a quorum had either house been called during the banquet, Mr. Tracey's quarters for the time being a second capitol. Senator Rogers, Delegate Haslup, and all the Howard coun tians in Annapolis at the time, were

Senator Rogers was heard again in the Senate Saturday last and more than maintained the reputation he has made as an orator. The Senator was opposed to the bill removing the appointment of the reporter of the Court of Appeals from the court, and delivered himself on the subject in magnificent style. The Governor has since with-held his signature from the measure on the ground of its being unconstitutional. The excellent record made by Senator

Rogers during the session just past, al though the first of his service, has given him prominence as a candidate for Congress this year. This is on the assumption that Hon. Barnes Compton will not be a candidate, Mr. Compton having been reported as making such an announcement. Press mention of Mr. Rogers as a possibility has been as favorable as the other commendation which the newspapers have given him. In general legislation there has no been a vast amount to do in the legisla ture just adjourned. Yet the able representation of Howard county in the House of Delegates has been manifest ipal, Miss Mary K. Holden, repaired to legislation pertaining to every county. and Delegates Tracey and Haslup have in no wise neglected the interests of their county. All of these bills, mentioned heretofore in THE TIMES, have become laws. Delegate Haslup's game law makes a change of a few days in Ex-Senator Peter, of Howard, has been a prominent figure at Annapolis the past session. His legislative experience has made him much sought after as an attorney to represent the interests of those affected by contemplated or accomplished legislation. The ex-Senator scored a great victory Monday over those who desired to prevent the B. & O. from making connection with the Belt line system.

Telling Points made by the Ex-President-He Says to the Republican Party, "Thou Shalt Not Steal"-Ex-Governor Campbell of Ohio Also on the Stump.

Ex-President Cleveland, who with other Democrats was watching the present session of Congress the free campaign in Rhode Island with great concern, addressed a meeting in Providence Saturday last. Following are his ing shall divert us from our purpose to remarks:

"Let us not for a moment miss the in- as many others, be the time of its acspiration of those words, 'The complishment near or remote. Feople's Cause.' They signify the defense of the rights of every man, rich or poor, in every corner of our land, who not do for them to say to us that this is ays claims to the promises of our free Ten Commandments are thousands of Government, and they mean the promo- years old; but they and the doctrine of tion of the welfare and happiness of the tariff reform will be taught and preachhumblest American citizen who confidingly invokes the protection of just and equal laws.

"The covenant of our Democratic faith, as I understand it, exacts constant effort in this cause, and its betraval I conceive to be a crime against the creed of true Democracy.

"The struggle in which you are engaged arrests the attention of your party orethren in every State; and they pause in their preparation for the general engagement, near at hand, in which all will be in the field, and look toward Rhode Island with hope and trust. They read the legends on your banners and they hear your rallying cries, and know that your fight is in the people's cause. "If you should be defeated there will be no discouragement in this vast waiting army; but you will earn their plaudts and cover yourselves with glory by winning success. "Large and bright upon your banners are blazoned the words 'Tariff Reform' -the shibboleth of true Democracy and the test of loyalty to the people's cause. "Those who oppose tariff reform delude themselves if they suppose it rests wholly upon appeals to selfish considerations and the promise of advantage, right, or wrong, or that our only hope of winning depends upon arousing animosity between different interests among our people. While we do not propose that those whose welfare we champion shall be blind to the advantages accruing to them from our plan of tariff reform, and while we are determined that these advantages shall not be sur rendered to the blandishment of greed and avarice, we still claim nothing that has not underlying it moral sentiment and considerations of equity and good conscience "Because our case rests upon such foundations, sordidness and selfishness cannot destroy it. The fight for justice and right is a clean and comforting one; and because the American people love justice and right, ours must be a winning "The Government of the Union is a Government of the people; it emanates from them, its powers are granted by of their men." He spoke of the closing This is not the language of a political platform. It is a declaration of the highest court in the land, whose mandates all must obey, and whose definitions all partisans must accept. "In the light of this exposition of the duty the Government owes to the people, the Democratic party claims that when through Federal taxation, burdens are laid upon the daily life of the people not necessary for the Governnent's economical administration, and intended, whatever be the pretext, to enrich a few at the expense of the many, the governmental compact is violated. "A distinguished justice of the Supreme Court, with no Democratic affiliations, but loved and respected when living, by every American, and since his death universally lamented, has characterized such a proceeding as 'none the less a robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation.' "Let us then appreciate the fact that we not only stand upon sure and safe ground when we appeal to honesty and norality in our championship of the inerests of the masses of our people as they are related to tariff taxation, but that our mission is invested with the highest patriotism when we attempt to preserve from perversion, distortion, and lecay the justice, equality, and moral integrity which are the constituent elements of our scheme of popular govern-

"Those who believe in tariff reform for the substantial good it will bring to the multitude who are neglected when selfish greed is in the ascendency, those who believe that the legitimate motive of our government is to do equal and leading members of all the churches in exact justice to all our people, and grant especial privileges to none; those who believe that a nation boasting that its foundation is in honesty and conscience cannot afford to discard moral senti ment, and those who would save our institutions from the undermining decay of sordidness and selfishness can hardly excuse themselves if they fail to join us in the crusade we have undertaken. Certainly our sincerity cannot be ques-

"The Democratic party still champions the cause which defeat could not induce it to surrender. When we began the contest for tariff reform, it was said by our Republican opponents, in the face of our avowals and acts, that we were determined on free trade. Sectional prejudices were invoked in the most ence, has dissolved partnership. The outrageous manner, and the people of business will be continued by Mr. Joshua | the North were asked to condemn the measure of tariff reform proposed by us because members of Congress from the South had supported it.

"I will not refer to all the means by which our opponents succeeded in that contest. Suffice it to say, they gained in every branch, and the tariff was reformed by its alleged friends. The con sumer has found life harder since this reform than before, and if there is workingman anywhere who has had his wages increased by virtue of its operation he has not yet made himself known. Plenty of mills and factories have been When some young man selects a young closed, thousands of men have thas lost employment, and we daily hear of reduced wages; but the benefits promised from this reform and its advantage to the people who really need relief, are not apparent. The provision it contains permitting reciprecity of trade in certain cases, depending on the action of the President, is an admission, as far as it goes, against the theory upon which this reform is predicated, and it lamely limps in the direction of freer commercial exchanges. If 'hypocrisy is the homage vice pays to virtue,' reciprocity may be called the homage prohibitory home—when all these hands, I say, are stretched out from every direction to lay their blighting weight upon that cottage, and the Democratic party says, be warmly seconded by the citizens of "Hands off, and let that home industry your State. The advantages to the peoto settlers. Those contemplating avail- industry that this or any other nation | not seem to be questionable, and I am ing themselves of this opportunity to ever had. - Speech of Mr. Bryan, of Ne- not here to discuss them in detail: but all I have said touching the conduct and record of the Democratic party and its opponents in regard to tariff legislation Wm. Bond, colored, has been convict- is in support of the proposition that all who desire the special relief referred to in your platform or any other improvement in our tariff laws in the general interest of the people must look to the Democratic party for it. The manufacturer who sees in free raw materials a tension of his markets, and a constant activity and return for his invested capibetter employment, and who how con stantly fears the closing of manufactories and the loss of work, ought certainly to be no longer cajoled by a party whose performance has so clearly given the lie to its professions. The consume who has trusted to a reformation of the tarisf by its friends, now that he feels the increased burden of taxation in his home, ought to look in another direction "If the Democratic party does not give to the State of Rhode Island during the raw materials she needs, it will be because a Republican Senate or Executive thwarts its design. At any rate, nothreform the tariff in this regard, as well

"Our opponents must, in the coming national canvass settle accounts with us on the issue of tariff reform. It will If it does not cure the cough, by virtue of simple American manhood, an old and determined contention. The ed until mankind and the Republican party shall heed the injunction, 'Thou shalt not steal. "As I leave you, let me say to you that your cause deserves success; and let me express the hope that the close of your canvass will bring no regrets on account of activity relaxed or opportunities lost. Demonstrate to your people the merits of your cause, and trust them. Above all things, banish every feeling of discontent, let every personal consideration be merged in a determination, pervading your ranks everywhere, to win a victory with a cause so just, and with activity, vigilance, harmony, and determination on the part of Rhode Island's staunch Democracy, I believe you will not fail."

Ex-Gov. James E. Campbell, of Ohio, was also a speaker at the meeting. He said that the average rate per cent under the first tariff in the country was 81 He quoted statements from Blaine's "Twenty Years in Congress" and from a speech of Garfield's in the House of Representatives to the effect that the period from 1850 to 1860 was one of prosperity. He said he could not see how a poor man could vote the Republican ticket in Rhode Island, and, quoting from a paper, continued: "This is the reply: 'There are few really poor men in Rhode Island. There are in the savings banks of the State $175 for every man, woman glad to know in which particular bank yours is. "I never heard a Republican speaker, address an Irish audience," said the speaker, "without shedding barrels of tears over evictions in Ireland, but I never heard one make the true statement that there are every year in New York City more evictions for rent than in the

and child there.' Some of you would be whole Emerald Isle." The speaker then read a description by T. V. Powderly of the condition of laborers in the Connellsville coke region to show there was not universal pros perity under high tariff.

"When my friend, Major McKinley, replies to me at long range to-night, want him to tell how many times Carnegie, Phipps & Co. went into their pockets to contribute to my defeat, and whether that money was not taken out them, and are to be exercised directly of an oatmeal mill at Ravenna, Ohio, as the result of a trust fostered by the Mc Kinley bill, and said he had prophesied

it five months ago. His closing point was with reference to the effect of an increase in tariff upon wages. McKinley had epitomized the tariff thus:"'We make the foreign manufacturer pay into the treasury the difference between his labor cost and our labor cost before we allow him to enter the American market. The census reports show the average tariff on all manufactures in 1860 under Democratic tariff at 24 per cent., and the average wage factor, or amount paid for labor on every dollar's production, at 25 cents. They only claimed protection to the amount of the difference in wages factor between this country and Europe, and we gave them within one cent of all they paid for wages. In 1870 they had the tariff up to 34 cents on the dollar and wages down to 23 cents. In 1880 they had the tariff up to 46 cents and wages down to 22 cents. In 1890, when they passed the McKinley bill upon the theory of protection to equalize the difference in labor, they held the tariff upon manufactures up to 60 cents and wages down to 17 cents. This is enough to show the falsity of the Republican statement, wherever made, that high tariffs have raised wages."
